

Roydon Jonathan Dsa is a Deep thinker, explorer, and continuous learner with interest and knowledge in the fields of Commerce and Socio-Economics. A bold young aspiring leader dazzled by the gift of life, people, and nature surrounding him. Currently, A huge tree is growing within him with roots going all the way deep inside his soul. Planted to resemble his motto: "Create and Build Value to serve Value" Roydon completed his Bachelor's Degree in commerce from HR College of Commerce and Economics, Mumbai, and gained knowledge in accountancy, taxation, auditing, and financial management to economics and export. Roydon wants to delve deep into social studies and aspires to study Economics and Public policy in particular for another Bachelor's Degree. He looks forward to using his commerce background to understand and analyze society, politics, and economics.

Roydon, being an emerging young leader, advocates upliftment in human consciousness and advancement of human civilization at all levels. He is a Gandhi-King Scholar under the Gandhi- King Scholarly Exchange initiated by the US State Department's Bureau of Educational and cultural affairs. Being a Gandhi king scholar, he studies and collaborates on projects on topics such as non-violence, peace, justice, civil rights, diversity, inclusion, equity, human rights, social development, etc. He has traveled to the United States for several civil rights historical site visits and leadership training. Roydon along with other nine young leaders from India and ten young leaders from the USA collectively established the Gandhi-King Leadership network, aiming to help society.

Email: roydon2001@gmail.com
Linkedin:
Roydon Jonathan Dsa

He loves indulging in various Art forms, talking to diverse people, listening with empathy, and practicing effective communication. Roydon believes human interaction to be a great source of learning, inspiration, growth, and service. He is a simple person with a lot of love for learning and teaching. Running for fitness and embarking on adventures in nature are his sources of nourishment. He is always looking for opportunities to serve society.

