

Hope Scruggs knows that realistic and successful students become successful adults. At Rust College, she learned the importance of mathematics, not just applying it, but implementing it into students' everyday lives, making it easier to learn. She gained her knowledge through professional development from her professors, as well as several internships in and outside the classroom. Throughout her tenure at Rust College, Ms. Scruggs was able to serve on a variety of executive boards such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), student government association (SGA), and Theta Pi Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Inc., etc.

In the 2020-2021 academic school year, Ms. Scruggs was given the highest honor of serving as queen on the campus court as Miss Rust College. Scruggs aspires to teach at the high school or college level. Her long-term career aspirations consist of becoming a college or university president. In pursuit of achieving such high aspirations, Scruggs is currently finishing her Masters in Secondary Education with a concentration in Mathematics at Alabama A&M University in hopes to start her career in her own classroom soon after completion.
